

National Night Out 2008

Salem's night out against crime!

Block Party Slogan Contest

Tuesday, August 5, 2008 is the annual National Night Out celebration. Between the hours of 6 p.m. and 10 p.m., Salem residents are asked to join thousands of communities across the nation to lock their doors, turn on their outside lights and spend some time outside visiting with neighbors and police.

For the last 25 years, Salem neighbors have held barbecues, potlucks, and even graffiti paint over parties to show their neighborhood pride. And, each year block party hosts receive a cool commemorative t-shirt with a police-community or crime prevention theme.

2008, however, is special. We're celebrating a quarter-century of the strength of police and community unity against crime. And, this year we'd like to invite the Salem community to help us create this year's t-shirt slogan. Send us your super-snazzy t-shirt slogan entry by standard mail (address below) or via email at crimeprevention@cityofsalem.net. The deadline is June 16, 2008.

The winner will be announced at future Salem City Council meeting and receive a t-shirt and certificate. So, don't delay — send us your slogan and get your block party plans in motion!
